TUESDAY CLUB

At the October meeting my granddaughter Phoebe Chew was unable to come so I stood in for her. I took along photographs and talked about her Australian adventure starting at Melbourne and travelling up the East Coast ending in Cairns. The trip lasted seven weeks and she had an exciting time. Competition" A holiday souvenir " was won by Frances Whymark. We meet again on the 4th November when Natalie will be telling us about her Icelandic holiday. Village Hall 2.30pm Competition " Something white " The December meeting will be our Christmas party on the 2nd. Rachel Wells

SYMPATHY

We send our sympathy to the family of Molly Robinson. Molly passed away at her home in Hadleigh. She was a worshipper at St Mary's for many years until ill health prevented her from attending regularly, although she would come when she could. She was a keen member of the Tuesday club and Forgetmenots and liked to keep in touch with happenings in Kersey through the newsletter. Although she had lived in Tiptree then Hadleigh for a long time she never forgot her Yorkshire roots and was always keen to tell you about them. Molly was a very determined person, not one to give up easily and we will miss her presence in church. She was a devoted mother to Richard and Lorraine and proud grandmother and great grandmother. She will be buried in the churchyard with her late husband Gordon.

RAINFALL

From 23rd September to mid afternoon on 23rd October 34mm (just over 1 1/4 ins) of rain was recorded in Vale Lane.

INVALIDS

We send best wishes to all those who have been in hospital for operations, awaiting operations, receiving treatment or unwell at home.

NEWSLETTER DONATIONS

Thank you to the 40 households who have donated so far to the cost of printing the newsletter, it is delivered to almost 200 households so still a long way to go. See page 2 for payment details.

St Mary's Church: Rev Geoffrey Clement

A walk through our churchyards will reveal the remarkable number of people who had been given names drawn directly from the Old Testament. For some reason or other, the Victorians seemed to take pleasure in bestowing upon their children names such as Tobias, Jeremiah, or Obadiah - names that carried the weight of biblical history and ancient tradition.

These days, when we do encounter Old Testament names, they tend to be the more familiar and accessible ones: Daniel, Sarah, Adam, or Jacob. These names have maintained their popularity across the generations and still feel comfortable to the modern ear. However, we will rarely find challenging biblical names like Amminadab, Zipporah, or Habakkuk.

So what was it about the Old Testament that so captivated the Victorian imagination and caused them to choose these particular names for their offspring? Perhaps it was because the Old Testament represented, in their minds at least, a time of great moral uprightness and clear-cut principles. The Victorians, with their emphasis on propriety and moral rectitude, may have wanted to invoke a similar level of morality in their own society by connecting their children to these biblical figures. By giving a child the name of a prophet or patriarch, they might have hoped to instil those same virtues and values.

Not that I personally think Old Testament times were quite as morally pristine as the Victorians imagined them to be. A careful reading of those ancient texts reveals that there was actually plenty of sinning going on at an epic rate—jealousy, betrayal, violence, and all manner of human failings.

These days, children's names might seem just as unusual or even bizarre as some of the Victorian biblical choices mentioned above—at least to those of us from older generations who grew up with more traditional naming conventions. In lists of the most popular “unusual” names, you will find the likes of Puppy, Bean, Bambi, Ice, and Porsche. Some parents seem to be drawing inspiration from objects, abstract concepts, or even luxury brands. I have even heard of someone who was given the names of the 1966 England Football squad. A nice way to remember a great sporting event, but something of a headache when filling in forms that ask for your middle names.

Perhaps this modern trend toward unusual names is simply a reflection of our contemporary desire to underline and celebrate the fact that we are all unique individuals.

In an age of mass production and social media conformity, that sense of uniqueness can be emphasized and proclaimed through the giving of a thoroughly distinctive name. A unique name becomes a kind of personal brand, a way of standing out from the crowd. But we should remember that we are all unique and unrepeatable already, regardless of what we happen to be called. Our uniqueness doesn't depend on having an unusual name—it comes from the infinite complexity of who we are as individuals, our experiences, our perspectives, our gifts and talents. That inherent, God-given uniqueness is what we should truly celebrate in each other, whatever the name.

THE NIGHTINGALE TRUST - ALLOTMENTS

The trust was set up in 1583 with a remit to help the poor and needy of Kersey Parish. Times change, and with them, people's needs. Payments are made in December that perhaps can help in some way towards winter fuel bills, rising food costs etc. We also make a donation to the local food bank, which can help Kersey parishioners too.

Are you finding it difficult to cope with rising costs? Do you know of anyone that would benefit from some assistance? All suggestions and conversations will be in the strictest confidence - contact details below.

Allotment plots available - We currently have 2 x 1/2 plots available for hire at £30 per year. If you are interested, contact details below.

Natalie Blyth - 01473 827805 / 07487 816966 / nablyth1@gmail.com

The Nightingale Trust Trustees would like to remind all parishioners that access to the allotment site is for plot holders only. Please do not walk within the site, keep to the public footpath and always keep your dogs on the lead on the public footpath. Many thanks.

Kersey - September Crime Overview

Cold Caller Warning: While some cold callers may be genuine, many are scammers or rogue traders trying to sell overpriced or unnecessary services. They often pressure you into making quick decisions. Individuals who turn up unannounced could also be criminals looking to steal from you, sometimes impersonating utility workers or officials.

Recent Incidents in Suffolk: There have been several reports of a man knocking on doors and either talking his way in or simply walking into people's homes uninvited, typically targeting the elderly or vulnerable. He claimed to be from a jewellers — which, upon investigation, does not exist — and said he was looking to buy gold jewellery, even broken items. This man has reportedly visited multiple homes in Hadleigh. On one occasion, after gaining entry, a piece of jewellery briefly went missing until the resident challenged him, at which point the item reappeared.

Description of the Man:

1. White male with a tanned complexion
2. Approximately 40 years old
3. Medium build, clean-shaven
4. Short dark hair, parted to the side
5. Wearing dark trousers, a blue short-sleeved shirt, and a blue tie
6. Carried a small black bag with a strap across his chest and back
7. Wore a lanyard with a white strap that had the word "ANGEL" written on it

I am strongly suspicious of this man's motives. If you believe he has just visited your home — especially given recent incidents across Suffolk — do not let him in. Call 999 immediately and mention these local reports to the call taker.

While on patrol, I am actively looking out for this individual. He has recently been active in both the mornings and the afternoons.

Tips to Protect Yourself from Cold Callers:

1. Keep doors locked and use a spy hole or door chain
2. Ask for ID and verify it independently
3. Never let anyone in unless you're certain of their identity
4. Be sceptical and confident in saying "No"
5. Report suspicious behaviour to police via 101 and to Trading Standards
6. If you've been tricked out of money, contact Action Fraud on 0300 123 2040
7. For advice, call Citizens Advice Consumer Helpline on 0808 223 1133
8. Contact your bank if money was exchanged

Gather evidence: take photos, save messages, and note down descriptions

Community Consultation Events

Thank you to everyone who attended and engaged with the recent community consultation events. There was plenty of feedback given on the People and Place Plan information boards, which is being analysed. It will help to shape the People and Place Plan document and action points for the Parish to work on over the coming years. A big thank you must also go to all the community organisation volunteers who put together such informative displays and shared what they do with the 60 or so residents who attended. The events were a success and a good opportunity for the community to network over a coffee and cake.

Afternoon Tea with The Three Chordettes

Wow....what a fabulous time we had on Sunday 19th October, hosting an afternoon with the vintage vocal trio, 'The Three Chordettes'. The church was full and tables were all set with beautiful flowers and vintage china crockery for our guests to enjoy a delicious afternoon tea. There were dainty sandwiches, delicious scones and homemade cakes of every variety, along of course with a glass of fizz. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves and we made around £1,200 for the church! Kersey Tye Annual BBQ hits its' 10th and 11th anniversary!

Kersey Tye have enjoyed two amazing BBQ's over the last 2 years where the sun has shone and we have marvelled that the BBQ has been going for over a decade. Of course, this has also meant that there have been two new Kings and Queens of Kersey Tye who have been appointed too!

After our much-loved neighbour, Bob Webster, died a few years ago, we decided to remember him in the shape of a memorial cup which is given to a deserving member of the Tye every year. This is someone who has faced personal adversity with strength, has done a lot for the Tye and is just a good neighbour.

In 2024 Scott Gray was crowned as the new King for his servitude to Tye and being a thoughtful and caring neighbour.

This year, Sarah and Chris Partridge, were crowned together for all that they do for us, and the surrounding countryside.

A huge thanks for Pat and Jessie for continuing to organise the BBQ, to Scott for the fabulous tent and to David for letting us use his garden to host the event. Its always really lovely to see each other and compare notes on who makes the best sausage rolls!

Farming Notes October 2025

Arable

Following on from my review of cereal prices last month I'm afraid the current prices have continued to slide. On a brighter note, I have continued my 'experiment with retirement' after a 7-week gap, during which I was on the farm. I am now in northeast Scotland again, chasing the elusive salmon for the last 2 weeks of the season. Water levels on the River Deveron have been low all summer and continue at the lowest in living memory into the 2nd half of October, so the fishing is difficult, although I have had moderate success.

All winter drilling was completed before my journey north, and the oilseed rape (OSR) was extremely forward which is surprisingly mirrored by the same crop where I am fishing, 600 miles north! I have been taking notice of the farming here in NE Scotland and am very surprised by the quality of the land close to where I am staying. As well as the grassland for cattle and sheep, and the usual cereals and OSR, there are many fields growing organic vegetables, including carrots, beetroot, and potatoes. I have seen a change this year from very labour-intensive hand weeding to the use of laser weeding machines that are amazingly efficient and can be trained by continually feeding them photos of the weeds and of course the crop, to identify whatever is needed. Once the cameras know what the target is, lasers fire with astonishing speed and accuracy, and the weeds are fried! It goes without saying that these machines are extremely expensive, costing many hundreds of thousands of pounds and can only be justified on large scale and high output crops, but the future lies here. The soil here is mostly grade 1 and has very little stone and what there is, is softer than our flint. One main drawback is that the fields are often quite steep and undulating, but yields seem to be first class.

Livestock

It turns out that the rain which I welcomed last month did not do much to increase grass growth – a case of too little too late. The grass did green up a little, but the cows relentless appetites has resulted in my delivering straw to them outside almost every day. As I write this, storm Benjamin is blowing outside and has delivered a fair bit of rain, but with colder weather forecast any late grass growth will be very limited. With our annual herd health and TB tests due soon, as well as embryo transfer, breeding programs and some cows to be pregnancy tested it will be necessary to have all the cattle housed so we can put them through the handling facility.

So next week we will be housing them and weaning the calves. Any late autumn grass growth which does occur will be useful for the sheep which will be out wintered and only come in at lambing time in February.

The use of artificial insemination (AI) in cattle is not a new science but since I trained to do it and got all the gear it has been very useful in our cattle breeding programs. I have also used AI to introduce other breeds of cattle to the herd: Simmental, Aberdeen Angus, Blonde Aquitaine and Stabiliser have all been used to advantage. The most recent breed which we have tried is the Wagyu. This is the Japanese breed which is known for producing Kobe beef (very expensive, high quality beef, which is produced when the cattle are fed beer and massaged!) Look it up if you don't believe me! The calves are very small (35kg) when born so I used some Wagyu semen on our pedigree British Blue heifers to give them an easy first calving. Hopefully the crossing of these two breeds will produce lovely high quality beef although I won't be massaging them, and I will probably drink the beer!

Kersey Village Hall Autumn Buffet 2025

This year's Autumn Buffet was, as it always is, a happy occasion and a lovely way to catch up with friends and neighbours both old and new. As you can see from the photographs, we had a delicious supper cooked by our committee. We also raised £697.59 which will go towards the upkeep of the village hall. We hope that those of you who missed the event this year will be able to join us next year on, as ever, the third Saturday in October.
